Overview

Required skills

Data Engineer / expert Scala / expert Python / good SQL / expert

We are looking for a Data Engineering to join our experienced team at a rapidly growing US AdTech company. Founded by three ex-Googlers, this project provides high-scale Bidder-as-a-Service solutions in advertising technology. As part of our team, you will have the opportunity to work with cutting-edge technologies and contribute to developing innovative solutions in the field.

Are you ready to become a part of a stellar team? Let's try!

Customer

The Client is a rapidly growing US AdTech company founded by three ex-Googlers. With a highly technical team and an excellent technological culture, it provides extremely high-scale Bidder-as-a-Service solutions in advertising technology. The company works with global businesses and has raised $28 million, including the most recent Series B raise of $15 million.

Project

As a Data Engineer, you will be able to work on exciting projects in advertising technology. You will be responsible for the hands-on development, modification, and maintenance of various application components and interfaces. One of the key projects you will be involved in is the building of ETL pipelines using our internal framework. These pipelines play a crucial role in collecting and processing large volumes of data efficiently.

The project will require you to work with languages such as Scala, Java, Python, and SQL.
